
Coaching and Consulting

Are your negotiations becoming more complex? Are the barriers to reaching agreement multiplying? Do you want help building your capacity—and your team’s—to achieve consistently better results in mission-critical negotiations? CBI offers coaching to individuals, teams, and organizations—both as a stand-alone service and also in conjunction with our training services. CBI coaches are among the most experienced negotiation trainers and dispute systems designers in the world. We use our firsthand experience to help organizational leaders and key staff build skills and systems to enable effective negotiation, especially where relationships matter as much as results.

Beyond coaching for skill development, we provide senior leaders and managers with the advice and support they need to coach their own direct reports and to institutionalize negotiation best practices.
